

Do Not Repeal Net Neutrality.

The Information On The Internet Is Not A Property Of Internet Service Providers.

There should be no corporation that has the power to restrict information access in order to protect their own business interests. Just because a newspaper prints a story doesn't mean the information belongs to that newspaper entity. The Internet should be regulated in order to prevent corporations from claiming such an ownership of information.